The Finest Material Deserves The Finest Protection

KOINTAINS

THE COIN HOLDER MUSEUMS USE - SAFE - NO PVC

Kointain - The finest non-PVC holder for the dedicated numismatist! Kointain is a two piece holder invented in 1950 by Dr. F.S. Epps, a recognized expert on coin storage. Dr. Epps employed the services of a research chemist to test all methods of coin storage. Upon discovering that no holder was safe, he invented one! Kointains are made of safe, impervious plastic. They are convex on top and bottom and touch only the sides of the coins. Old time customers report that coins stored in Kointains over 25 years ago have retained their pristine appearance! Kointains are ideal for use in exhibits at coin shows, displays, and are used by the Smithsonian Institution, Carnegie and ANA Museums. Kointains are produced under strict quality controlled conditions.
